REAL ESTATE GROUP

Nestled into one of the most prestigious neighborhoods of Yorba Lina, Pinnacle House captures the Yin and Yang of East meets West. It is a true example of contemporary design mixed with a modern take on Feng Shui.

There are several Feng Shui benefits of Pinnacle House, speaking in terms of its energy and architecture. The 5,000-year-old science of Feng Shui was first developed by the Ancient Chinese as they derived a system for placement of buildings and crops around the topography of the land. Their goal was to find an optimal location providing maximum comfort, protection and balance. Today, several earthly elements are incorporated into home design to provide balance. When balance is achieved with these elements, a feeling of harmony and uplifting energy will be felt by anyone walking through the home. When a true balance is achieved, all areas of life benefit as they relate to the home.

Pinnacle House is a great example of incorporation of Feng Shui elements. The strongest Feng Shui elements of this home – water, fire and wood – will provide its occupants with Power, Fame and Great Reputation.

As you approach, a light soothing breeze provides a key feature: a calm and comforting sense of welcoming into this kind-spirited haven.

As you walk in, you find an escape from the outside world. You are welcomed in through a grand front entry to this beautiful estate by a large cascading modern waterfall – a quiet Zen water feature that brings in a feeling of peace and serenity to the home.

As you continue through the home, you experience another powerful energy of expansion as each room gently becomes larger. The spacious scale of the rooms and hallways add to a feeling of growing energy while maintaining a grounded sense of strength and balance with the tile floors.

An open and extensive gourmet kitchen and luxurious living area make for the perfect place to enjoy the view and entertain guests. As these areas open up to an incredible view of the cities below, you will find a soft breeze that gently sweeps through the air.

Open the large glass pocket doors and you will find yourself wondering whether you are indoors or out. This continuous connection between rooms and the outdoors creates a very desirable flow of energy, promotes harmonious relationships between the inhabitants, and welcomes the energy of nature to participate in the exchange.

The private and engaging media room provides a quiet and cozy, yet spacious area for entertaining. A bright and airy feel makes for the perfect gathering place during the day, but easily transitions into a comfortable 15-person movie theater by night.

Paramount in Feng Shui is the goal to help people experience the feeling of what life was like before urbanization. Humans originate from nature. So, when incorporating nature into the home, natural instincts are satisfied and a sense of calm and tranquility take over.

Stepping outside into the Mediterranean-inspired, outdoor space reveals a tranquil desert landscape complete with a meditation garden lined with 13 olive trees, evoking an essence of incomparable peace. But perhaps the centerpiece of this home's outdoor landscape is its zero-edge infinity pool, flanked by two glass-tiled fire pits. Dip your feet in the warm and healing infinity pool and feel your energy expand as far as the horizon.

Pinnacle House is a true home with great balance of Yin and Yang energy – Fire and Water. It is a great place to entertain friends and family, yet has a quiet retreat prayer garden and soft water features to unwind from your busy lifestyle.
